¹ An Internet subscriber is defined as a fixed service that has been installed and is operational at the customer premise, which includes dwelling units (households) or businesses.

² In Q1 2024, Bell removed 11,645 "turbo-hubs" subscribers from its high-speed Internet subscriber base as they no longer include the product in its wireless-to-the-home footprint.

³ In Q1 2024, Bell added 3,850 business subscribers to its high-speed Internet subscriber base as a result of a small acquisition.

⁴ In Q3 2024, Bell removed 106,259 cable subscribers from its high-speed Internet subscriber base as a result of the CRTC's decision on wholesale high-speed access services that prevents it from reselling cable Internet services to new customers.

⁵ Sasktel reports on a fiscal calendar beginning April 1, ending March 31

⁶ SaskTel and Videotron do not report net additions in its quarterly financial reports. Net additions for these carriers have been calculated by the Association.

⁷ Cogeco reports on a fiscal calendar beginning September 1, ending February 31

⁸ In Q2 2024 (Q3 2024, according to Cogeco's fiscal calendar), Cogeco added 2,691 Internet service subscribers and readjusted its Q1 (Q2 according to its fiscal calendar) subscriber number as a result of an acquisition. Cogeco's Q1 subscribers have been retroactively readjusted from the previous release of this tracker as a result of this change.
